Circular

Pursuant to the Circulars No. RGUHS/Prasaranga/COVID-19/Circular/2020, Dated: 26.03.2020, and 30.03.2020, it is desired to bring about uniformity of standards in the conduct of Online Teaching Project (OTP). To bring about such uniformity, the University has established a dedicated training institute – RAATI, which has been conducting various verticals in Educational Methodology for teachers of all affiliated colleges so as to develop competence for the standardised academic practices.

In the changing context of need to migrate to the online platforms, it is found essential to sensitise the teachers on the principles that underlie a successful adaptation of digital platform, and make a seamless shift from the conventional practices without slackening the current quality of academics.

Therefore, the RAATI has designed an Online Foundation Course in Educational Methodology (FCEM Online) to introduce the concepts and practices conducive for teaching and assessment on digital platform. As per the request placed by the Dean of Homoeopathy Faculty, a three session FCEM will be conducted for the teachers of affiliated homeopathic colleges in the third week of May 2020.

Attending this program is compulsory for all the teachers of affiliated homeopathic colleges. Their attendance in the program will be noted, and the Certificate will be issued to those teachers who submit the duly filled feedback and post-test. This Certificate will be considered as Primary Docket under the provisions of notification No. RGU/CDC/ASC/01/2017-18, Dated: 16.07.2019.

All the Principals of affiliated homeopathic colleges are instructed to provide the list of their teachers as per the attached format in Word document, for sending the details of program and the links for invite, feedback, and post-test to raati.rguhs@gmail.com on or before 07.05.2020.

Dr. Munir Ahmed R, Director, RGUHS Academic & Administrative Training Institute (RAATI), can be contacted for further clarification regarding the schedule and related logistics on the above-mentioned Email.
